To the Hiring Team at Affirm:

I am writing to express my interest in the Implementation Specialist I position natively listed for the Raleigh team. I have spent the last six years bridging the gap between web development and high-volume operations, specifically focusing on technical implementation and troubleshooting for digital architectures.

What drew me to this role at Affirm is the explicit need for someone who can translate business/marketing objectives into strict technical execution. In my most recent role, I managed high-velocity SLA compliance engines, ensuring that pixel tracking (GTM, GA4, Meta) and API integrations were flawlessly executed before deployment. I do not just pass tickets to engineering when things break; I use Chrome DevTools and deep HTML/JS analysis to find malformed scripts, unearth integration anomalies, and inject native fixes directly.

As a certified Project Management Professional (PMP) and ScrumMaster (CSM), I thrive in high-communication environments where cross-functional alignment is required. Whether I am teaching a non-technical marketing partner how to audit an eCommerce checkout flow, or providing highly structured feedback to an engineering team regarding an API limitation, I ensure that the documentation is pristine and the communication loop is closed.

I am highly motivated by Affirm's commitment to transparency in the financial sector, and I am actively seeking a 100% remote role where I can execute as a high-level individual contributor. I am completely comfortable managing the 8am-6pm Pacific hours from my Eastern timezone, and I look forward to discussing how my blend of web development experience and operational precision can scale Affirm's merchant integration processes.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Best regards,

Jeremy Wood
